THE GREATEST care should be taken in what we eat and drink, yet we are too often indifferent and careless, notwithstanding health depends on what we eat and drink.

In regard to drink nothing but the best should he taken. It costs no more than the indifferent quality, if people would only ask for what they know is the best Old Scotch Whisky is the most wholesome beverage yet known Mackie's Scotch Whisky gives an undoubted guarantee to those who are not judges of quality.

I hereby certify that I have taken samples of every vatting of Mackie's White Horse Cellar Blend of Scotch Whisky used in bottling during the month of September, and the results of my analyses indicate that it conforms to the standard for Pot Still Scotch Whisky set up in the London case. I am also of opinion that it is an old Whisky of excellent quality and flavour, which has been well matured in wood.

AN INTERESTING PHARAOH.

The discovery if the tomb of Queen Thie has been one of the most important events of recent date in Egyptological research, and now the finding of the tomb of her son is arousing an equal amount of interest. Mr. Arthur P. Weigall, Chief Inspector of the Department of Antiquities in Egypt, tells in "Blackwood's Magazine" the moving story of her son Akhnaton, "born to the sound of music and to the clink of golden wine-cups." He ascended the throne when still in his teens, and under the guidance of his mother began to break down old traditions, especially those relating to the worship of Amon-Ra, a deified mortal with many mortal limitations. Akhanaton's first act was to proclaim Aton the only true God and himself his high priest. Then, as the worship of Amon and a hundred other deities confronted him everywhere, he abandoned Thebes, and built a new capital elsewhere, about 160 miles above Cairo. Though only fourteen, he vowed to shut himself up here with his god, devoting his life to his religion; and this vow he kept throughout his brief life. His was without doubt "the most enlightened religion which the world at that time had ever known," by no means pure and simple sun-worship:—

Akhnaton's god was the intangible and yet ever-present Father of mankind, made manifest in sunshine. The youthful High Priest called upon his followers to search for their god not in the confusion of battle or behind the smoke of human sacrifices, but amidst the flowers and trees, amidst the wild duck and the fishes. He preached an enlightened nature-study: he was perhaps the first apostle of the Simple-Life.

Extracts from one of the hymns to Aton is quoted, and the remarkable similarity with Psalm civ. pointed out.

Meanwhile Akhnaton devoted himself wholly and solely to his religion and to waging somewhat relentless war against the old faith, and took no notice whatever of his generals in Asia Minor struggling to hold together the Egyptian Empire. "For twenty years," one memorial to him pleaded, "we have been sending to our Lord the King, but there has not come a word to us, no, not one." The consequence of Akhnaton's disregard of his empire was that there was shortly no empire left; and when he did wake up to the deplorable fact, it was too late. His dream of binding together the many countries under his rule by giving them a single religion of love, truth, and peace was never to be realised. When tribute suddenly ceased, and the few refugees came staggering home to tell of the fall of the empire, Akhnaton seems to have received his death blow:—

He was now not more than twenty-five years of age; and though his portraits show that his face was already lined with care, and that his body was thinner than it should have been, he was a powerfully-built man, having plenty of reserve strength. He was the father of several daughters, but his queen had borne him no son to succeed him; and thus he must have felt that his religion could not outlive him. With his empire lost, with Thebes his enemy, and with his treasury well-nigh empty, one feels that Akhnaton must have sunk to the very depths of despondency.

His very city fell into ruins, and its temples and palaces became the haunt of jackals and the home of owls. In time he was regarded as a heretic, spoken of as "that criminal," and his name obliterated from his monument, as it was found in this year of grace 1907. Even his own mother's body was not allowed to lie in the same tomb with her son's, and was therefore carried away—where is not quite known.

On the proposal of the Director General of Public Health Department, H.E. the Minister of the Interior has authorized Mr. Mahgoub Ahmed Sabitt, physician, and Mr. Michon Haim, pharmacist to practise in Egypt.

Discoveries of Rings.

A boy from the kindergarten of the Armenian National School at Boulac going home through the Sharia Bein-el-Surei, has picked up three rings set with stones. The owner can have the same by applying to the Director, M.K.G. Tourian at the school at Boulac.

Government Accounts.

During September last the receipts of the Egyptian Government amounted to L.E.990,140, and the expenditure to L.E. 965,307, the total receipts during the first nine months of the year amounted to L.E. 10,461,708 and the expenditure to L. E. 9,922.629 against L. E. 9,709,327 and L.E. 9,013,834 respectively for the corresponding period of last year.

Instruction at Mansourah.

Mansourah is a town that from an intellectual point of view will soon be in the same rank as the biggest cities of Egypt. Amongst its leading men there are several who ask for the establishment of a Berlitz School there, and the general Director of this institution is now studying a project the execution of which would procure a real advantage to the inhabitants of Mansourah. Hashish Seizure.

Yesterday the Quay Police of Alexandria seized forty kilos of hashish, which were hidden in a boiler on quay 28. It is supposed that it was put there in order to be placed in the passenger train awaiting the arrival of the Austrian Lloyd steamer. The Coast Guard Administration have made two seizures of hashish during the past few days, seizing 257 kilos 500 grammes at Port Said on the 24th inst. and 172 kilos in the Western Desert on the 27th inst.

Alexandria Swimming Club.

The championships which were competed for at Gabbary last Saturday resulted as follows :—100 yards Juniors.—(1) J. H. Mitchinson, (2) D. A. Hamilton, (3) W. Keill : won by two yards, eight yards separating second and third : R. F. Ecclestone, H. Elsworth, and H. Taylor also competed. 220 yards Seniors.—Three members took part in this important event, namely C. E. L. Randall, A. A. Ecclestone, and P. Psycha ; Randall won by three yards and Ecclestone came in second six yards ahead of Psycha. E. A. Darton (last year's winner) did not defend his title.

Khartoum Bridge Toll.

We understand that it is the intention of the Sudan Government to institute a toll on foot and vehicular traffic over the new bridge between Khartoum and Khartoum North when it is completed, it being hoped that in this manner revenue sufficent for the payment of the interest on the money borrowed to build the bridge, would be accumulated. The idea is an excellent one. There is of course a settled charge for each person who crosses the river by the existing ferry, and when one considers the enormous loss of time that will be saved by the use of the bridge, it is evident that to remove all tax would be absurd when the maintenance of a small charge would make the thing a paying concern while still greatly benefitting the public.

New Guide to Egypt.

Among the latest London publications announced is Murray's Handbook for Egypt and the Sudan. It has been revised, largely re written, and augmented by H.R. Hall, M.A., F.R.G.S., assistant in the Department of Egyptian and Assyrian Antiquities, British Museum. This (the 11th) edition has been thoroughly revised and brought up to date in all its departments. The whole work has been materially remodelled. Many sections have been arranged and re-cast, as the Delta and Fayoum routes ; others have been greatly augmented, as Cairo ; and others have been almost entirely re written, as Thebes and the Oases. In addition, a new section has been specially written on the Anglo Egyptian Sudan. The maps and plans have been augmented, and have all been carefully revised. The English Arabic vocabulary (now printed separately), has been rearranged and expanded, and its usefulness for tourists has been increased by the addition of an outline of Arabic grammar.

LORD CROMER'S GREAT HONOUR.

Freedom of the City of London Presented.

BRILLIANT GATHERING AT THE GUILDHALL.

SIR JOSEPH DIMSDALE'S EULOGY.

(GAZETTE'S SPECIAL SERVICE.)

LONDON, MONDAY EVENING.

In the course of its historic past the Guildhall of the City of London has been the venue of many brilliant functions, and among these the great ceremony which has taken place there to-day of the conferment of the Freedom of the City upon Egypt's saviour, the Earl of Cromer, will rank as one of the most striking and interesting.

Lord Cromer's services to Egypt and the Empire have from time to time received acknowledgement from the King, these honours including the conferment of the Order of Merit, one of the most exclusive Orders in the gift of his Majesty, and earlier this year Parliament showed their appreciation by voting his lordship the sum of £50,000, the occasion being marked by a chorus of praise from both members of the Government and the Opposition.

All these manifestations of the gratitude of King and nation must have deeply touched Lord Cromer, and done much to compensate him for the long years of hard and, at times, heart-breaking work in Egypt, but to-day's presentation has been the crowning triumph of his life's labours. London, the hub of the universe, has added his name to the distinguished Roll of the noble and the brave whose deeds of glory and renown are writ large in the pages of history.

The scene in the great hall of the Guildhall to-day was indeed grand and one to be long remembered. A large dais had been erected at the east end, and seated here, behind the Mace and the Sword of State, was the Lord Mayor, Sir William Purdie Treloar, arrayed in all the dignity of his high office, with the Aldermen, in their scarlet robes, about him. Immediately below were the chief officials of the City, and in front sat the members of the Court of Common Council in their blue mazarine robes.

A Distinguished Gathering.

The body of the hall and the galleries were filled with a distinguished gathering of peers, eminent statesmen, representatives of the Church, the Law and the Services, members of Parliament, and well-known ladies and gentlemen. These included :—

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Lord Strathcona, Viscount Errington, the Marquis and Marchioness of Bath, Lord Curzon, Viscount Milner, the Earl and Countess of Northbrook, Lord Revelstoke, Viscount and Viscountess Goschen, Earl and Countess Granville, Lord Alexander Thynne, Viscount and Viscountess Midleton, Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Mr. John Morley, Secretary of State for India, Sir Vincent Caillard, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baring, the Hon. Windham Baring, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baring, Colonel Robert Baring, the Governor of the Bank of England, Sir Ernest and Miss Flower, Sir Colin Scott-Moncrieff, K.C.M.G., C.S.I., Lady Ruby Elliott, Sir Hugh and Lady Shaw-Stewart, Sir Whittaker and Lady Ellis, Lady Faudell Phillips, Sir Thomas and Miss Crosby, Sir Edward and Lady Clarke, Rt. Hon. Sir C. Hardinge, G.C.M.G., the Hon. Sir Eric Barrington, K.C.B., Sir Francis Campbell, K.C.I.E., C.B., Sir Hamilton and Lady Lang, Sir Douglas Straight, Hon. Walter Rothschild, the Hon. Harry and Mrs. Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Moberly Bell, the Hon. Arthur Stanley, M.P., Mr E. Dicey, Mr. William Archer, Mr. St. Leo Stracey, Mr. Carl Meyer, the Hon. Sidney Peel, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pitman, and many others.

An Impressive Ceremony.

The ceremony itself was carried out with all the ancient and impressive ceremony, and little time was wasted in preliminaries. It should be explained that the gathering was in essence a sitting of the Court of Common Council, so that when the Lord Mayor's procession had passed to the dais, and the Lord Mayor had taken his seat, with the Earl of Cromer on his left in the place of honour, the Court was opened by the Town Clerk, Mr. J. Bell reading the items on the agenda. Of course, the only business to be transacted was the ceremony which everyone was anticipating with pleasurable excitement. The Chief Clerk of the Chamberlain's Court, Mr. G. A. Pickering, read the quaint formula, by which the compurgators testified to the fitness of Lord Cromer to receive the Freedom of the City.

Afterwards the Master and Wardens of the Skinners Company formally presented Lord Cromer for the Freedom.

City Chamberlain's Oration.

The oration of the City Chamberlain, Sir Joseph Dimsdale, which followed, was an eloquent recital of the magnificent services which Lord Cromer has rendered to his country, and was punctuated throughout with enthusiastic applause.

The Chamberlain, the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Cockfield Dimsdale, Bt., K.C.V.O., has a long and distinguished record of services in the City to his credit. From 1891 to 1901 he held the position of Alderman, and was a Sheriff in 1894. He represented the City on the L.C.C. for five years, 1895-1900, and sat in Parliament as one of the City's representatives from 1900 to 1906. He was paid the signal compliment of being elected Lord Mayor during the memorable year 1902, and carried the Crystal Sceptre in front of his Majesty at his Coronation. He was created a Knight in 1894, and Baronet in 1902, and in the latter year also he was elected a member of the Privy Council, and was made a Knight Commander of the Victorian Order. He has held the position of City Chamberlain since 1902. He is a Past Master of the Grocers Company ; Past Grand Warden and Past Grand Treasurer of Freemasons of England.

Sir Joseph, in the course of his speech said :

Among the many privileges enjoyed by citizens of London, none are more highly treasured than the presentation of honorary freedom. We are thereby enabled to set the impress of the imperial city and the Empire upon the actions and lofty aims of those who have signalised themselves by their devotion to the welfare of their country. We meet to-day to acclaim one of the greatest living personalities of our time and it is with peculiar pleasure that we greet Lord Cromer within the walls of the ancient Guildhall. The best years of his life he ungrudgingly placed at the disposal of his country and his Sovereign in every capacity. He has left his mark and a lasting, solid good behind him.

Lord Cromer's Services.

Sir Joseph Dimsdale then reviewed Lord Cromer's 25 years' magnificent services in Egypt. He had produced, out of chaos, prosperity, hope, peace, and good government, and all this was owing, under the divine blessing, to the courage and determination of one man. While these great events have been passing in Egypt there have been different Governments at Home and different Premiers at Downing Street. Such was Lord Cromer's personality and so patently just and sincere his policy, that Mr Gladstone, Lord Salisbury, Lord Roseberry, Mr. Balfour, and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, one and all, had accorded him their co-operation and support in his great and noble work.

Sir Joseph Dimsdale then quoted Sir Edward Grey's speech in the House of Commons on the occasion of Lord Cromer's retirement, and in conclusion he said that whatever should be the future history of Egypt Lord Cromer's name would be indelibly engraved upon her annals as her regenerator, financier, statesman, administrator—the great Pharaoh of Modern Egypt.

At the close of his speech the Chamberlain offered the right hand of Fellowship to Lord Cromer, welcoming him as a Freeman of the City, and presented to him the gold casket containing the Franchise Ticket in the name of the Lord Mayor and the Corporation.

Lord Cromer's Speech.

On rising to respond, the Earl of Cromer had a great ovation, and was visibly affected by the warmness of the greeting.

Lord Cromer, in an excellent speech which lasted half an hour, thanked the City most cordially for considering him worthy to be inscribed on the roll containing so many illustrious names. He could have done little in Egypt but for the occurrence of adventitious circumstances, the chief of which was the fact that of late years foreign affairs had been elevated to a great extent out of the somewhat heated atmosphere of party strife. He thanked Sir Edward Grey for his support in circumstances of no common difficulty.

Having paid warm tribute to his coadjutors, one of the most able of whom was Sir Eldon Gorst who had succeeded him, Lord Cromer said that Sir Eldon Gorst would achieve success, particularly if he did not allow himself to be hurried by faddists in England and the numerous scribes who looked upon London as a sort of political Mecca.

Enemies to Progress.

Referring to Nationalism, Lord Cromer said that it would be a mistake to take too seriously the Nationalists or their friends in England. Some of the latter misled the Egyptians as to the true trend of public opinion at home and encouraged the hope that political development in Egypt could be much more rapid than was possible. These he regarded as the worst enemies to Egyptian progress. Extremists in Cairo would not be conciliated save on terms which would involve a relapse to all the misgovernment and disorder of the past. He saw but one method of dealing with the unrest in Egypt and India. It was to continue steadfastly to do our duty towards the people of those countries, and to come down with a heavy hand upon the extremists who overstepped the limits of the law, but at the same time not to be deterred from adopting such reforms as would satisfy the aspirations of all moderate and reasonable men.

The Country's Prosperity.

Alluding to the financial crisis he said that the prosperity of the country in no way suffered and he hoped it would do something to stop the over-speculation which had been such a mischievous feature of the Egyptian markets in late years. Future prosperity was assured owing to the work of the hydraulic engineers, the true makers of Modern Egypt, who had secured the country from drought and assured the cotton crop. Lord Cromer then explained the habit and custom of hoarding gold and said that he hoped the creation of savings banks and the increased circulation of paper money and increasing banking facilities might improve matters, but it would be a slow process.

At the conclusion of Lord Cromer's reply, the Lord Mayor introduced to him the mover and seconder of the resolution conferring the Freedom upon his lordship, Mr. J. W. Domoney, and Sir George Faudell Philips, G.C.I.E. Bt., and the Sheriffs, Alderman Burnett, and Mr. C. C. Wakefield.

After the ceremony at the Guildhall the Lord Mayor entertained the Earl of Cromer to luncheon at the Mansion House, at which a distinguished gathering was present.

The Golden Casket.

The casket in which the Freedom of the City was presented to Lord Cromer is of 18ct. gold, and is specially designed with a harmonious blending of English and Egyptian ornament as being eminently appropriate to the recipient's great work in Egypt ; the upper and lower mouldings are embossed with a lotus ornament, and the box is divided into panels by pilasters of Egyptian design.

The central position is occupied by the full arms of Lord Cromer, in heraldic blazon, and on either side are panels with Egyptian soldiers, against a background of blue enamel. Further panels contain coloured enamel views, one being of modern Cairo and the other of the Pyramids. There are similar panels on the reverse bearing views of London, the centre being engraved with the following inscription :—

PRESENTED BY THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF LONDON
WITH THE FREEDOM OF THE CITY TO THE
RT. HON. EVELYN BARING, EARL OF CROMER, G.C.B., O.M., G.C.M.G., K.C.S.I., C.I.E., LL.D., IN RECOGNITION OF HIS LONG AND EMINENT PUBLIC SERVICES.
GUILDHALL, OCTOBER 28TH, 1907.

The lid of the box is exceptionally distinctive. The bold dome, which is chased with lotus ornament, is surmounted by a finely modelled figure of Britannia, significant of British influence in Egypt under Lord Cromer's wise and beneficent guidance. At each angle of the lid are representations of the minarets of the Cairo Mosque, and under a cornice of harmonious style appears the recipient's initial surmounted by a coronet.

A silver-gilt base, with four fine models of the Sphinx, and at each end an Egyptian obelisk with hieroglyphics, supports the box. The curve of the base is utilized to display Lord Cromer's orders and decorations, the remainder being ornamented with suitable emblems. The full blazon of the City Arms appears in the centre of the obverse, and the whole casket rests upon an oak plinth.

EGYPTIAN POLITICS.

HOW MANY PARTIES ARE THERE ?

The native mind appears to be grievously troubled owing to the multiplication of political parties in Egypt and the favourite occupation of the members of the various groups now consists in sending lengthy contributions to their favourite newspapers to prove that their party is the only genuine representative of public opinion and that all other Nationalists, who refuse to join their clique, are unprincipled, self-seeking humbugs, who are not inspired by any genuine feelings of patriotism, but on the contrary by the most sordid sentiments.

The "Manchester Guardian," which has been the journal favoured by Mr. Wilfrid Blunt for his letters on Egyptian affairs, has been considered by Egyptians to have rather favoured the cause of Nationalism owing to its strong Radical proclivities. But recently the "Manchester Guardian" announced that there were three parties in Egypt and this announcement has caused great vexation to Kamel's followers, who consider that the Moderate Nationalists, represented by "Al Moayad" of Sheikh Aly Youssef, and "Al Minbar," of Hafiz Awad, the "Party of the Nation," of "Al Guerida," and the Egyptian Liberal Party are all of no account. El Sayed Hassan Moussa el Akad in a contribution to "Al Lewa," declares that the statement of the "Manchester Guardian" is not true as Kamel's party embraces all true Nationalists, as was proved by the meeting at the Zizinia Theatre. He states that the "Party of the Nation" only consists of supporters of "Al Guerida."

Meanwhile the organ of the "Party of the Nation" has described the Egyptian Liberals as an imaginary party, which has elicited a manifesto from Mohamed Bey Wahid, the leader of the Liberals, who replies to this insinuation at some length.

THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF EGYPT.

MR. BLUNT'S CHARACTER.

"Once a twenty years resident in Egypt" sends the following letter to "The Times".

Twenty-five years ago I was your Correspondent in Egypt. In that capacity I frequently disagreed with the policy pursued by Sir Edward Malet, and my criticisms of that policy in your columns and elsewhere caused an interruption in our friendly relations, though not, I am glad to believe, in our mutual esteem. I merely recall this fact to show that I am not a prejudiced supporter of Sir Edward, whom I have hardly seen since he left Egypt.

One of the chief subjects of my disagreement with him was that he persisted in taking Mr. Wilfrid Blunt too seriously, thereby apparently inducing Mr. Gladstone to treat him as an authority, until at last Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Blunt between them made the British occupation inevitable.

To me, and to most people resident in Egypt at the time, Mr. Blunt was a specimen of that type of British tourist who, with no evil intentions, but suffering from acute megalomania, thinks that he can acquire the reputation of an authority by spending a few weeks in a country, by meddling in its politics—of which he has not a rudimentary knowledge—and by writing letters thereon to newspapers.

A year or two before Mr. Blunt came to Egypt I had met a young man who, after six weeks in the country, announced to me his intention of writing an Arabic grammar because he found the language so simple. Mr. Blunt confined himself to no such harmless experiment, but devoted himself to what he called the study of the people. He was known in Cairo as "the mad Englishman" who would greedily swallow anything, and it was for a time a favourite amusement with certain people to induce an intelligent donkey boy to pose as a leading native and to pour horrible legends into his sympathetic ears. For a time I believe that even Sabunji himself favoured this deception, for his own powers of imagination, though great, were exhausted. It was, however, playing with edged tools ; for, though Arabi, who was a muddle headed but honest fellah, took no advantage of his ignorance, there were others of the party, more intelligent and less scrupulous, who were willing to use him as their tool and to laugh at him behind his back ; while our own and other Consulates never much in touch with the native element were easily imposed upon.

The origin of Mr. Blunt's megalomania and self imposed mission was always popularly ascribed to the fact that he had married a connexion of Lord Byron. Byron was a poet—Mr. Blunt wrote poetry. Byron espoused the cause of Greek liberty, and Mr. Blunt espoused the cause of what he called Egyptian liberty. The parallel was incomplete, for Byron died at Missolonghi and Mr. Blunt lives at Crabbet Park.

But his attempts in prose and in verse to represent himself as the angel who rode in the whirlwind and directed the storm are farcical in the eyes of any one who knows anything of the circumstances. In one sense only is it true. Mr. Blunt was, with Mr. Gladstone, the chief provocative cause of the British occupation of Egypt, as was George III. of the independence of the United States—they raised the whirlwind and were shattered by it.

As for Sir Edward Malet, I have said that I disagreed with his policy. I have written severe things about it, nor do I know that with regard to that policy itself I have anything to retract ; but, looking back over a quarter of a century, I think I did not perhaps make sufficient allowance for the difficulties of any man serving under the Government of that period. I was younger ; I had not then thoroughly realized with what little intelligence the world is governed, and, believing that Cabinets were always ruled by intelligence, I perhaps attributed to him the follies of those whose instructions he was bound to obey.

But in my greenest youth I should never have been guilty of classing together Sir Edward Malet and the man who openly avows that he sent to "The Times" a statement for which "of course we had not a shadow of authority to go upon" (p. 433).

SIR WILLIAM GARSTIN.

The Cairo correspondent of the "Times," in announcing Sir William Garstin's new appointment, remarks that it is regarded as of great importance, as he is the first British representative on the board who has combined the highest technical experience and knowledge with great administrative ability. It may be confidently predicted that his influence will be exerted, whenever possible, on behalf of British shipping interests and those of the Egyptian Government, into whose hands the canal will eventually pass.

It is hoped that it may be possible for him to remain in the service of the Government till April, and that he may thus be enabled to pay a final visit to the White Nile and complete certain important works connected with Egyptian irrigation. It is hoped also that in the exercise of his new duties he will frequently visit Egypt, where the greatest value is attached to his advice.

Sir William Garstin's successor will in all probability be Mr. Webb, an administrator of proved ability and fearlessness, who commands the confidence and respect of the Government, the people, and the present chief.

ARMY OF OCCUPATION.

Within the last three days we have received two letters containing reflections on the behaviour of officers of the Army of Occupation at Alexandria. Both these letters are anonymous and cannot therefore be published. Even if the signatures of the writers had been appended, they would not have been published, not because, as one of these correspondents insinuates, we are an English newspaper, but because we have good reason to believe that in the two cases of misconduct, which form the subject of these complaints the offenders were civilians. It appears to be an amiable delusion among some of the foreign inhabitants of this city that every Englishman, who dons a dress suit in the evening, is prima facie a member of the Army of Occupation.

CAIRO'S OPERA HOUSE.

It is said that the question of a new opera house for Cairo has been settled at last, but that the new building will not be commenced until the year after next. The original plans offered by Mr. More, have, we are informed, been rejected, though why, we are at present at a loss to understand. He offered to build a new opera house on a site to be chosen by the Government, for the sum of L.E. 200,000, provided that he should be given the right to build houses or stores on the site of the existing opera house, such buildings to revert after a lapse of years to the Government.

The scheme which it is reported has been adopted is that of Mr. Sachs, a London theatre builder, who is to build an exact model of the Covent Garden theatre in the Esbekieh Gardens for the sum of L.E. 300,000 to be paid by the Government, and it is also said that the street opposite the Grand Continental Hotel, and the Splendid Bar (Sharia Kamel) is to be increased in width by encroaching upon the gardens to some extent.

We have received no official confirmation of the above statements, and at first sight it would appear to be almost incredible that the Government should refuse such an advantageous offer as that of Mr. More appears to be, and close with one which entails an extra expenditure of L.E. 100,000.

Cairo needs a new opera house, and needs it badly, but over a quarter of a million is a lot of money and we doubt if the expenditure of so large a sum can be entirely justified when one considers how very short is the opera season in Cairo. However criticism on this point must wait until official details of the proceedings are given to the public.

BULLETIN DE LA BOURSE

(Aujourd'hui à midi)

L'aspect de la corbeille était ce matin celui d'une séance d'été. Peu de monde, la plupart occupés à tout autre chose qu'à des transactions. En tous cas, celles-ci ont été absolument nulles; 25 par ci par là et encore dans la catégorie des petites valeurs, United Lands, Ritz Hotels et Delta Land. Les valeurs dirigeantes et en général toutes celles dépassant un certain prix ont été complètement négligées. Cela ne veut pas dire que les offres aient été nombreuses mais simplement que les vendeurs se trouvant presque seuls dans la corbeille n'ont pas jugé à propos de casser les cours sans résultat; en quoi d'ailleurs ils ont agi fort sagement.

Malgré cela, toutefois, il s'est produit une certaine dépression sur une partie de la cote, provenant sans doute de quelques détenteurs désireux de réaliser, mais encore une fois, la plupart de leur offres sont restées sans contrepartie.

L'Agricole revient de 8 3/32 à 8 1/16. La National Bank perd 3/16 à 21 3/8. On offre la Delta Light à 10 1/8. Les Privilégiées Tramways d'Alexandrie fléchissent de 138 à 135, la Daïra de 13 1/2 à 13 3/8 et la Béhéra de 23 à 22 3/4. En revanche, à la suite d'une demande assez suivie, l'Obligation Crédit Foncier progresse de 297 1/2 à 298 acheteurs l'ancienne et de 254 à 255 la nouvelle, ainsi que l'Union Foncière de 4 3/4 à 4 13/16.

La Banque d'Athènes rétrograde de 108 1/2 à 108. Les Nungovich Hotels, perdant graduellement l'énorme avance qu'ils avaient récemment gagnée, clôturent à 17, en nouvelle baisse de 1/4 de livre. Pour la Land Bank les acheteurs ont également disparu: le cours retombe de 7 3/16 à 7 1/16. Le Crédit Franco-Egyptien recule aussi de 4 3/16 à 4 1 8.

Dans la catégorie des titres secondaires, nous voyons la Salt & Soda reculer pareillement de 17/9 à 17/3, l'ordinary Khedivial Mail de 22/9 à 22/6, la Building Lands de 2 à 1 15/16 et la fondateur United de 1 à 7/8; l'action United est, au contraire, soutenue à 9/32 acheteurs. La fondateur Levico, qu'on avait cessé de coter depuis quelques jours, s'inscrit à 3 livres.

Le Comptoir Financier et Commercial (Campos), après avoir retenu toute l'attention de notre marché la semaine dernière, retombe dans le marasme juste à la veille de l'assemblée générale qui doit avoir lieu le 31 de ce mois. Le prix fléchit encore de 2 29 32 l'ancienne et 2 31/32 la nouvelle à 2 27/32 et 2 29/32 respectivement. La part de fondateur réactionne également de 2 1/16 à 2. De rares échanges ont eu lien; dans le nombre il faut compter 25 actions anciennes vendues aux enchères publiques au cours de 2 7/8.

Jusqu'ici la corbeille comptait une bonne partie d'optimistes. Mais aujourd'hui l'inaction et la baisse ont refroidi beaucoup d'enthousiasmes. On est en tous cas unanime à reconnaître que les affaires ne vont pas. Quant aux motifs, ont met surtout en avant la crise américaine; nous avons déjà dit hier ce qu'il fallait en penser.

Nous n'avons pas besoin d'ajouter que la tendance est mauvaise, ce qui ne veut pas dire que demain il y aura encore baisse mais simplement que pour le moment l'ensemble du marché tend vers une nouvelle dépression.

D'autres plus judicieux nous annoncent chaque jour que notre cote va reprendre le lendemain! On voit la confiance qu'il faut mettre dans les paragraphes frémissants de ces haussiers à outrance (lisez vendeurs).

A Paris, le Crédit Foncier Egyptien qui vendredi avait gagné 3 francs, a perdu samedi 5 francs à 690. La Banque d'Athènes a été soutenue à 110 et les Lots Turcs à 167.

***

Ici, les causes de la récente dépression n'ayant pas encore cessé et les banques continuant à mettre leurs clients en demeure d'avoir à liquider leurs dossiers, les offres sur le marché sont toujours très abondantes. Bien qu'il se fasse des achats très suivis sur certaines valeurs les cours rétrogradent avec une ténacité que des liquidations continues peuvent seules expliquer.

De fait, la panique de New-York a peut-être pu décourager quelques acheteurs, mais n'a certainement pas engagé de spéculateurs à vendre, notre marché n'ayant rien de commun avec l'Amérique et ne pouvant être touché par ce qui se passe là-bas que très indirectement, soit par la hausse du taux de l'escompte résultant de la solidarité financière de tous les pays.

Les causes de la baisse sont donc uniquement égyptiennes et par cela même ne sauraient durer, car, somme toute, le travail de déblaiement qui se fait actuellement ne peut qu'être très salutaire, assainissant la situation de la place et éloignant le cauchemar de nouvelles liquidations lorsque la saison des affaires battra son plein. C'est pourquoi le pessimisme actuel est exagéré; nous reverrons la hausse comme nous verrons aussi des réactions: C'est dans l'ordre des choses et la reprise n'en sera que plus rapide.

Dans le compartiment des Banques, la National Bank est plus faible à 21 7/16-1/2 malgré sa reprise de vendredi et samedi à Londres. L'Agricole se comporte mieux à 8 1/16-1/8. La fondateur Comptoir Financier recule à 2 1/16 et la part Société Générale à 32.

Les obligations du Crédit Foncier Egyptien sont très actives, l'ancienne en tassement à 296 et la nouvelle en progrès à 253-254. L'obligation Béhéra retombe à 4 1/4 et les fondateurs Allotments à P.T. 55-56. L'Enterprise and Development est lourde à 8 1/4-3/8. L'American Nile se relève légèrement à 2 7/16-1/2. Les Frigorifiques progressent à 2 1/4-5/16.

Dans le groupe des Hôtels, les Nungovich rétrogradent à 163/4-17 et les Egyptian Hotels (Baehler) à 5 15/16. La fondateur National Hotels s'affaisse à P.T. 25.

Parmi les petites valeurs, la Delta Land retrouve sa faveur d'antan à 1 5/16 en gain de 1/16. Les Markets haussent à 26/3. La New Egyptian recule à 12 -. L'Aboukir est également en baisse à 27/6. Les Cotton Mills cotent 1/6. La Nile Cold Storage est en progrès à 0 5/16. L'Ordinary Khedivial Mail réagit à 22/6. Les Oasis (Western Egypt) sont mieux disposées à 0 3/8-7/16.

Nous recevons d'un de nos lecteurs les réflexions ci-après que nous reproduisons comme typiques en l'état actuel des affaires.

"On s'étonne parmi les non initiés de la baisse persistante qui affecte justement les seules valeurs favorisées du public et qui aient, par l'état prospère de leurs affaires, un marché suivi. On me dit, et je n'ose en douter vu l'honorabilité indiscutable de mon informateur, qu'il y aurait là le résultat de la façon d'agir de certains établissements de crédit. Un d'eux même aurait obligé, on ne sait pour quelle cause, un de ses clients à se défaire, quoiqu'il en eût d'autres, de titres susceptibles de revenir très prochainement à des cours plus élevés, alors que l'infortuné aurait de beaucoup préféré se débarrasser de papiers cotés nominalement à des cours visiblement supérieurs à ce qu'on en pourrait tirer.

"Il faut espérer que ces établissements reviendront à une appréciation plus exacte de la réalité et, bien que je n'aie pas la sottise de vouloir apprendre à nager à des poissons, me fiant au bon sens de leur directeur, j'aime à croire qu'ils comprendront comme ce mode de faire est contraire à leurs propres intérêts et bon tout au plus à nuire au relèvement du marché tout entier."

Les recettes de la "Delta Light Railways" pour la semaine au 19 Octobre 1907 se sont élevées à L.E. 5,710 contre L.E. 6,235 en 1906, soit en diminution de L.E. 525.

Les recettes totales à partir du 1er Avril se chiffrent par L.E. 137,419 contre L.E. 120,975 durant l'exercice précédent, soit en plus-value de L.E. 16,444.

PRINCE VON BUELOW.

KAISER'S VISIT TO LONDON.

NO POLITICAL IMPORTANCE

BERLIN, October 28.

It is semi-officially announced that although Prince von Buelow would welcome the opportunity of responding to the friendly sentiments expressed in serious political circles in Great Britain and of personally testifying that he had never been an opponent of England, he is unable to accompany the Emperor as, apart from pressure of work incidental to the opening of the Reichstag, his accompanying His Majesty would be used to attach to the visit a political importance which it does not possess. (Reuter)

THE HARDEN EXPOSURES.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

BERLIN, October 28.

Herr Harden alleged that the camarilla induced the Emperor to believe that reconciliation with France was possible. His Majesty's resentment at the diplomatic rebuff precipitated the Morocco crisis, and when the exposure came the Emperor was the first to step in and break up the camarilla. (Reuter)

LORD CROMER.

LONDON, October 28.

Lord Cromer has been presented with the freedom of the city at the Guildhall. His Lordship was heartily cheered. Returning thanks Lord Cromer emphasized that during recent years foreign affairs had happily been removed from the atmosphere of party politics. He was sure that Sir Eldon Gorst would achieve success if he did not allow himself to be hurried by English faddists and the numerous scribes in Egypt who regarded London as a political Mecca. He warmly acknowledged Sir E. Grey's loyal support and referred to the Anglo-Russian agreement, which he considered was perfectly justifiable in spite of certain concessions. It was a mistake to treat the Egyptian Nationalists and their friends too seriously. He was not alluding to those who desired a reasonable extension of self-governing institutions, but the extremists who existed in Cairo, Calcutta, and Dublin. He saw only one method of dealing with the Indian and Egypt unrest and that was to continue steadily doing our duty, to descend with a heavy hand on the agitators who over stepped the law, and to adopt gradually the reforms required by moderate men. (Reuter)

KING ALFONSO IN PARIS.

NOTES FROM PORT SAID.

LADY PASSENGER INCIDENT.

THE OFFICIAL VERSION.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Port Said, Saturday.

"The Port Said incident," which is generally accepted as descriptive of the misfortunes which befel a certain lady passenger to this port at the hands of a dragoman, has, owing to the prominence afforded it in your columns, become almost the sole topic of conversation here. Happily the affair, though sufficiently serious, has been proved to have been considerably exaggerated. My report of the case was based upon the report of one who proved to be an unreliable on-looker, but equally exaggerated reports have also been published in our two local papers. This evening, however, I have been granted an interview with a police official, who gave me the following details:—

An Australian lady passenger from the S.S. "Oroya" on coming ashore was accosted by a crowd of guides One of these was engaged by the lady to show her the interesting places of our town. During the afternoon the guide took the lady into a shop for refreshments, which, it is supposed, contained some sort of drug. The reason for supposing the drink contained drugs is that the lady was in a dazed condition when interviewed by the police. In the same shop the lady was also shown some indecent post-cards. The lady, being disgusted at what she had seen, requested the guide to take her to the ship immediately. After leaving the shop, and when nearing the Savoy Hotel, a police officer who was passing overheard the lady say she wished to be taken on board, and the guide trying to persuade her to accompany him to his house first. Here the police officer interfered, and, from a statement made by the passenger, the guide was arrested and taken to the Caracol, where it appears he threatened to strike the officer in charge. The passenger was taken on board and again repeated her statement, but in a very dazed manner.

This morning the guide appeared at the Native Court to answer the charges (1) Of proposing to a lady passenger to accompany him to his house (presumably for indecent purposes) (2) Of threatening to strike a police officer. The court acquitted the prisoner on both charges, and allowed him to continue his profession. The Commandant of Police gave notice of appeal against the decision re the second charge. The first charge will have to be dropped, as the case is none too clear, according to the laws of the Native Court.

The case, however, though evidently exaggerated, is a sufficient illustration of the low character of our "official dragomans," who are a disgrace to the town and never ought to be allowed to trade with respectable persons. It is more than remarkable that our Commandant of Police has no voice in the selection of these "official dragomans;" it seems to me that he is the one and only official of the Government to whom should be given the right of awarding and cancelling dragomans' certificates.

German Minister's Visit.

Mr. Dernburg, the German Secretary for the Colonies, and party, arrived at Suez from German East Africa yesterday evening, and left immediately for Cairo by special train. After spending a few hours in the capital the party took train for Port Said where they arrived soon after 11.30 p.m. Mr. Dernburg was met at the station by Mr. Bronn, German Consul at Port Said. The party drove direct to the quay where they re-embarked on board the S.S. "Prinz Regent." The vessel proceeded immediately afterwards.

The New City Liner.

The S.S. "City of Paris", under the command of Capt. Campbell, arrived here to-night on her maiden voyage from Liverpool and Naples with passengers and general cargo for Calcutta. The "City of Paris" is the largest of the Ellerman lines fleet, and with the exception of a few mail steamers, she is the largest vessel running to India. She is 509 feet in length, 57 ft 9 inches in breadth, 36 ft 6¼ inches in depth, of about 9,000 tons gross, and has a single screw, quadruple-expansion engines by Messrs. Barclay, Curie & Co., capable of giving a service speed of fifteen knots. The following passengers disembarked here for Egypt and the Sudan:—

Mrs. Graham Charlton, Mrs. Flower and family, Miss N. Macdonald, Miss Nicoll, Mr. Ferguson Lee, Mrs. C. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Cheetham, Mrs. Stopford, Mrs. A. E. Frampton Jones, Mr. W. Clements and Miss W. Watson.

Warships' Visits.

The first class cruiser "Europa" arrived at Port Said from Suez on Thursday evening with time expired crew from H.M.S. "Powerful. The "Europa" coaled and proceeded to Malta on Friday night. H.M.S. "Edgar" also arrived here Thursday night from China and proceeded to Malta this morning.

Cricket Match.

Yesterday afternoon a cricket match was played between the ship and shore teams. After a very exciting game Port Said won, but only by two runs, the score being Port Said I. S. Club 49 and H.M.S. "Edgar" 47.

NOTES FROM ADEN.

HUMDAN DISTRICT QUIET.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

ADEN, October 23.

The trouble in the Turkish district Humdan is practically at an end, now that Ramadan has commenced. Many villages in Humdan, have been destroyed by the Turks. The inhabitants of Humdan are in league with the Imam, and have recently given much trouble to the Turks. Negotiations are now being made by the Turks with the chiefs of Humdan for the recovery of the Turkish arms recently captured by the people.

German Enterprise.

Reports received from the Red Sea go to show that Germany is directing her attention afresh to Farsan, the most important island in the Red Sea. According to these reports a German ship recently called there and landed several men, dressed in Turkish costume, on Sayir, the headland of Farsan, in order to again explore the island. The Germans who arrived on board the ship made purchases of some provisions at very high prices and distributed some presents among the people of the island. It is said that the latter have been attracted by their gold and courteous conduct, and that they have given them a paper signifying their willingness to live under German rule, if the Sultan cedes the island to them.

If these reports are correct, the interest betrayed by Germany, in Farsan is very peculiar, when considered with the latter's previous attempt to force a coal depot there. It may be remembered that Germany, some years ago, landed coal at Farsan without the permission of the Sultan and despite the protests of the local Turkish authorities, and made an exploration of the Island, in consequence of which friction arose between Germany and the Sultan, the latter strongly resenting the German intrusion. The dispute was, at length, settled, and in view of Germany's declaration, that she only wanted a coal depot in the Red Sea "during the Chinese crisis," the Sultan agreed to allow Germany to store coal in an island in the Red Sea of his own selection, subject to the stipulation that the coal store should be "international," and retaining his rights of sovereignity over the island. Koomeh, a small islet a few miles from Farsan, was then selected by the Sultan as the site of the coal store, and some buildings were constructed by the Turkish authorities there, but, apparently, Germany was not satisfied with Koomeh, and hence her constant interest in Farsan.

It is difficult to advance any good reason for the German anxiety to establish themselves in the Red Sea. The Chinese crisis no longer exists and the necessity for a coal depot has disappeared. Farsan is the biggest and most important island in the Red Sea. It has salt and petroleum mines, and it is said that it also possesses a coal mine. Besides these mineral deposits, Farsan has a pearl-fishery in its waters, which is the most important pearl-fishery in the Red Sea. Formerly it was garrisoned by a very small number of Turkish troops but since the Germans landed the coal, it has been garrisoned by a force of troops. Koomeh is a small islet and comparatively of little value, and its capabilities as a naval base offer very little attraction.

The Mecca Mission.

The Commission from Mecca has arrived at Sana, in company with two Turkish Pashas. The programme of the Commission is still unsettled. They propose, if possible, I understand, to proceed from Sana to Al Kufla, which lies about three days' distance from Sana, where the Imam is now stopping, and then a conference will he held and negotiations will be conducted. If it is not possible for them to reach Al Kufla, they will stop at Sana and from there they will conduct the negotiations by letters.

THE CAIRO CONGRESS.

REFORM OF ISLAM.

A few days ago we published a telegram announcing that the celebrated Oriental traveller Professor Vambery of Buda Pesth University, had suggested the holding of an Islamic Congress at Cairo. The following are his suggestions:—

In my correspondence with the civilized Mahomedans it has frequently struck me that the ideas, not only of social and cultural, but also of religious reform is steadily gaining ground. In former times any approach to similar questions was reckoned amongst the most hazardous, nay, sacrilegious problems, and even the most courageous reformer would have shrunk from mentioning the words religious reform, by which he might have been accused of heresy and despised by his fellow-believers. Quite recently, however, a change is noticeable in this direction. Religious topics, thought to be the sacrosanct of Islam, are unsparingly discussed, and I have before me a Tartar paper called Terdjuman (i.e., the "Interpreter"), and published in Bagchesarai in the Crimea, in which the proposition is made to discuss in a congress questions of general importance for Islam, with the exclusion of all political tendencies and bearings. The appeal is signed by its editor, Ismael Bey Gasprinski, and published in No. 60 of the said paper. It runs as follows:—

In paying due attention to the relations of the Mahomedan world, we shall be grieved to notice that, wherever and under whatever rule they be, they always remain behind their neighbours. In Algiers the Mahomedans are superseded by the Jews, in Crete by the Greeks, in Bulgaria by the Bulgarians, and in Russia by everybody. It is patent that, groaning under despotism and unable to profit by liberty and Constitution, they pass their time in patience and submission. We ought to investigate into the causes of this deplorable state, for admitting, for example, that the Algerian Jews surpass the Algerian Arab, it is astonishing and quite inexplicable that the poor and devout Buddhist should get ahead of the once energetic Moslem.

This is the much more to be wondered at when we see that in recent times important thoughts and questions have arisen in the Islam world, and that, amongst others, the situation of our women has been under discussion in Egypt, Russia, and India. There have been besides many other topics touched relating to the mutual condition of the Eastern and Western civilization; questions which ought to be handled with ripe consideration and solved in accordance with the special wants of the different countries. But since these questions are of extraordinary interest for the cultural revival of Islam, it is preferable to discuss these matters in a common general way, instead of the hitherto used single and separate form. The first congress of the Russian Mohamedans in 1905 has greatly contributed towards the rousing and development of these thoughts, and now a much greater necessity has arisen for the convening of a general congress, the activity of which may be useful to Islam. The congress, embodying our learned clergy and literary celebrities, must not be frightened by the European clamour of Pan-Islamism, for our representatives, gathering from all parts of the world, and striving to solve many social and cultural questions, will open more than one hitherto barred way and door. We shall thus be able to sanction the unavoidably necessary reforms and innovations in Islam. After obtaining by deliberation the unity of thought, and by striving to propagate these ideas in the whole Islam world, we shall have created a sound understanding and a general awakening of the hitherto sleeping Mahomedans. At the time of public association Islam was a ruling power, now three-fourths of it are ruled by others. The world is constantly changing and progressing, and we are left behind for many many miles. As this congress, owing to certain reasons, cannot meet in Constantinople, we trust to be able to unite in Cairo, which is looked upon as the second centre of Islam. We are anxious to have the opinion of the Mahomedan Press concerning the programme and the discussable points, and there is much hope that we shall meet in September next year in Cairo.—ISMAEL.

I dare say nobody will undervalue the importance of this appeal. There are three points which deserve our particular attention. (1) Mahomedan reformers do not choose for their gathering the seat of the spiritual chief of Islam, but a town, which they call the second centre of Islam—namely, Cairo—where, sheltered by the British, they find full guarantee for free speech and an unrestrained discussion. This public acknowledgment of the toleration of British rule will afford a good lesson to the clamouring Nationalists on the Nile, whether they take it to heart or not. (2) The appeal furnishes an open disavowal of any Pan-Islam tendency, which never could enter the mind of any sober-thinking Mahomedan under the present circumstances and which every Christian knowing the East must declare to be a bogey (3) It will evidently strike one that, amongst all Mahomedans, it is just the Tartars who come forward with the important proposal, which, owing to the immovability of the tenets of Islam, the movers of the congress will have to treat with great caution and moderation. Their object in view being decidedly the reformation of Islam, they are just now engaged in the preparatory labours, a fact which is fully deserving our attention.
